

Writing Starters (Copy down the starter and continue!)

Suddenly, icy fingers grabbed my arm as I inched through the darkness.

She opened the letter and it said she'd won $100,000.

When I flipped on the radio that night, I couldn't believe the voice I heard coming through the speakers.

There was a secret meeting in the morning and she absolutely had to be there.

I opened my eyes and had no idea where I was...

He was heading back to the one place he hoped he'd never have to see again.

A road trip was just the thing for me and my friends.

The roller coaster had stopped and we were left upside down...

When I walked into the living room, I saw a ...

The little girl turned to me and said, "The future of the world is up to you now".

At first, I thought it was only the dog making noise, but it was...

It sounded like piano music and it was coming from my kitchen...

It all started when I accidentally picked up the wrong suitcase at the airport.

The cab driver suddenly turned left instead of right and I had no idea where he was taking me.

She broke open the fortune cookie, but there was a map on the tiny slip of paper.

The waitress walked over and whispered in my ear, "You have to leave because your life is in danger".

The dog was tired of living in a kennel, so he was planning an escape.

While I could see hundreds of stars in the sky, there was no moon that night.

From the moment he walked into the casino, Lady Luck was on his side.

The twins had a secret and they knew that no one could ever find out about it.

Every time I heard the ice cream truck go by, I got scared.

I hadn't planned on becoming a hostage at the bank when I got up that morning.

Walking down the hallway to the principal's office, I had no idea what was about to happen...

The note said to go to the ...

I had the same dream every night and it was scaring me.